The Learning Generation Initiative (LGI), formerly the Education Commission, is a global initiative hosted by the Education Development Center, encouraging greater progress on Sustainable Development Goal 4: Quality Education - ensuring inclusive and quality education and promoting lifelong learning for all.

OUR VISION

All children and youth are in school and learning the skills they need to be successful in work and life

OUR MISSION

To empower the people within and connected to education systems to enable all children to be learning within a generation

To support our vision and mission, we implement a threefold interactive and iterative approach to change:

Analyze

Conduct pragmatic and independent research and analysis to understand barriers to progress and what works; translate it for policymakers; and create tools and knowledge products.

Act

Co-design, test, and evaluate innovative solutions with national partners, embed findings, generate ownership, and ensure sustainability by building local capacity.

Amplify

Curate sustained engagement with national and global decision-makers and funders to adopt and expand solutions quickly and widely and evaluate impact.

To achieve our ambitious agenda, we work across three transformations; Education Workforce, System Delivery, and School Health and Nutrition.

These transformations are underpinned by a strong focus on addressing marginalization, building system resistance, and facilitating cross-sectoral collaboration.

Education Workforce

The Education Workforce Initiative (EWI) is catalyzing efforts to support teachers and leverage the wider education workforce by drawing on the latest evidence and innovations to strengthen school and system leadership; advance the use of learning teams approaches; and improve the supply and quality of teaching for the most marginalized.

System Delivery

The System Delivery transformation builds on our previous DeliverEd work on delivery approaches and aims to work with governments to use evidence and data to prioritize, problem-solve, and improve organizational learning at all levels of the education system and embed problem-solving practices throughout the delivery chain.

School Health and Nutrition

The Sustainable Financing Initiative for School Health and Nutrition (SFI) is an initiative of the School Meals Coalition. It works with governments and donors to help countries develop multi-year financing strategies for school feeding programs with a particular focus on low- and lower - middle - income countries.

PARTNERSHIPS | Partnerships are absolutely critical to our work; we very much value the opportunity to collaborate with others in an open and inclusive way. We are delighted to be able to continue to work with some of our former commissioners and create a new group of LGI champions who will advocate for critical issues and evidence-based approaches to transform education.
